

President Bashir must face the law

The arrest warrant issued for Sudanese President Omar al-Bashir is great news and will serve as a warning for those who kill, pillage and deny their citizens basic human rights. Not even a trip to a Swiss bank account will be safe for the likes of Bashir and his cohorts.

What a courageous decision taken on behalf of the voiceless! Who in this world does not know what people from southern Sudan and Darfur regions have undergone through all these years in the hands of this man? Those countries that claim to be for poor citizens should come and support this decision. If not, Africans should now come forward and start scrutinising countries like China and Russia who claim to be working for cooperation between peoples if not helping dictators get entrenched in power so as to continue exploiting African countries to death!

For us Ugandans, we should applaud this decision rather than sit down criticising it. African despots who take pleasure in making their citizens suffer gross abuse of human rights must now know that their days are numbered- whether still in power or not.

Poor leadership has made Africa the bastion of all evils: corruption, military coups, diseases, underdevelopment a laughing stock in the eyes of the world... What have we not endured as a people?
